What does a Parent Support Advisor do?

Your Parent Support Advisor is here to offer support, advice, guidance and a listening ear to parents of school children

The service is confidential and can support you with:

- Parental/family concerns
- School lateness/attendance
- Behaviour Management
- Understanding and supporting emotional concerns.
- Child development
- Supporting education
- Transition (moving) through schools
- Emotional wellbeing
- Parent confidence building
- Healthy Routines
- Separated parenting
- Child/Parent relationship Breakdown

How do we do it?

Parent Support Advisors give support to families in many different ways including:

- One to one contact/support
- Meeting with/in school
- Parenting Courses
- Various parenting workshops
- Support in referring on to other/more appropriate services
- Telephone/text and email

When might you need to contact your Parent Support Advisor?

“I have a question about parenting”

“I need help getting my children to school on time”

“I am worried about parents evening”

“My child’s behaviour is getting out of hand”

“I’m worried my child is being bullied”

“I’m worried about my child’s emotional behaviour”

“I’m struggling since my partner left, what can I do?”

“I’m not sure how to talk to my child/ren”

“I would like someone to talk to”

Sometimes things can get tough and parenting can be difficult.

Your Parent Support Advisor is here to help.
